

Telling Your Story Workshop

Tuesday, April 9, 2013

Do you want to inspire high school students?

Inspire the next generation of scientists with real stories of STEM careers!

Register Now

Tuesday, April 9, 2013 @ 9:00 am - 2:30 pm

Where: MIT Campus

Who: Scientists, engineers and grades 9-12 science and technology teachers

The Telling Your Story (TYS) Workshop aims to form collaborations resulting in classroom visits where STEM professionals will “tell the story” of how they became inspired to pursue a STEM career. This is a chance for STEM graduate students, postdocs, and teachers to work together to craft an inspiring, exciting classroom visit that will connect high school students to the real world of science, technology, engineering and math!

Refreshments and lunch will be provided.

Registration and more information:

<http://sites.google.com/site/tellyourstoryworkshopmit>